Distinguished Graduates

(This is the eighth in a series)

Alexander Horn Paterson, D. D. S., F. A. C. D.

Each year since 1936, members of the graduating classes have competed for the Alexander H. Paterson Memorial Medal for Practical Set of Full Upper and Lower Dentures. Competition for this medal is always vigorous. It is well that we learn of the man in whose name this award is given.

Dr. Paterson graduated from the University of Maryland in 1911. At commencement he was awarded the University Gold Medal for Scholarship. Immediately after graduation, Dr. Paterson was appointed Demonstrator in Prosthetic Dentistry at his alma mater. This presented an opportunity for intensified study and a thorough preparation in the field of dental prosthesis. Dr. Paterson's great potential in dental research and education was recognized in 1924 when he became Professor of Prosthetic Dentistry.

Dr. Paterson possessed the inherent qualities necessary to impart to others the knowledge and skill which were at his command. His personal integrity and steadfast drive were inspirational; his professional demeanor and moral standards were impeccable. He provided intelligent, unselfish, and progressive leadership in the elevation of dentistry to its present professional standard. He taught and wrote with one goal in mind — idealism in dental service. When a man demands and obtains perfection in his own work, then he becomes an inspiration to all those who follow.

As a contribution to prosthetic dentistry, Dr. Paterson took upon himself the herculean task of providing the public with a more effective prosthetic service. Much of his time was spent in perfecting the old techniques already in existence, but even more of his energy was directed toward the development of modern denture prosthesis. Through his teaching, lectures, clinical presentations and publications, Dr. Paterson became one of the leading prosthodontists in this country and throughout the world.

In the summer of 1923, Dr. Paterson was invited to exhibit his prosthetic models before the dental societies of Europe. He had worked for several years on the preparation of these models and had exhibited them around the United States where they were received with great enthusiasm. This was an excellent opportunity to demonstrate to European dentists the status of American prosthetics. The exhibit was highly commended for its beauty and accuracy by the British Dental Society at Manchester. Dr. Paterson took his exhibit to Holland where he presented a paper before the society in Amsterdam and then went to Paris to attend the annual meeting of the Federation Dentaire Internationale.

Although deprived of many educational opportunities during early life, Dr. Paterson had the perseverance to struggle for the training he needed to prepare himself for his profession. He was never content with mediocrity, and by his unselfish determination became a leader of great esteem in his community and profession. He held active membership in an impressive list of civic and professional organizations. After realizing his proficiency in prosthetics, he devoted his life to aiding the progress in that field and to educating the profession so that it could better serve the public. Dr. Paterson's contributions to dentistry made him a true benefactor of his fellow men. His good works live on in the profession today.

"Darn it, and I got a good grade on the Dental Aptitude Test too!"

As June approaches, we look to graduation, and the opening of doors to the world around us. We shall encounter internships, graduate study, dentistry in the Armed Services, private practice, and the revered title of "Doctor."

We recall four past years of seeming hardships and frustrations, but we would rather remember the happier times impregnated with mounting knowledge and skills. We may enter our field content that we have had training with the newest equipment and technics. We are confident in our background, that we may uphold it under the responsibilities demanded of us.

Finally, we may be thankful for those who have given us the opportunity and who have devoted part of their lives to developing in us the ability and the capacity to reach our goals. We leave with kind wishes for our classmates and for those at the B. C. D. S. who have opened for us the great doors to professional life.

HONORARY PRESIDENT

Dentures, foils, root canals, and curettages! The list of requirements seemed indeterminate last fall when we were initiated into things dental. When our handpieces had the jitters those first few weeks, we thought an empty tally sheet each week would be the rule, not the exception. Somehow, like everything else at the B. C. D. S., requirements were completed and exams passed; our senior year dawned. Now the past few months are part of the song—

"Dearie, do you remember—?"
—The days of the lectures at eight mere Juniors then bemoaning our fate.
—The perfect appearanec of jackets we made—except for the color and possibly the shade.
—Saggers that shook at the furnace door,
and three more crowns that fell off on the floor.
—The developing room where the sun never rose and solutions were splattered all over our clothes.
—The words are withheld with arduous suppression on the first ten attempts to get an impression.
—Our efforts at instrumentation with minimum scaling, and much laceration.
—The many times when treating a pocket
we almost removed the tooth from the socket.

Yes, we all remember the Junior year, and soon the seniors will also be a memory. To them, we wish much success and happiness. To those seniors who will become instructors, remember that once you also lived by the ancient Chinese proverb:—

"Those who have points checked each day will not be gassed come April or May."

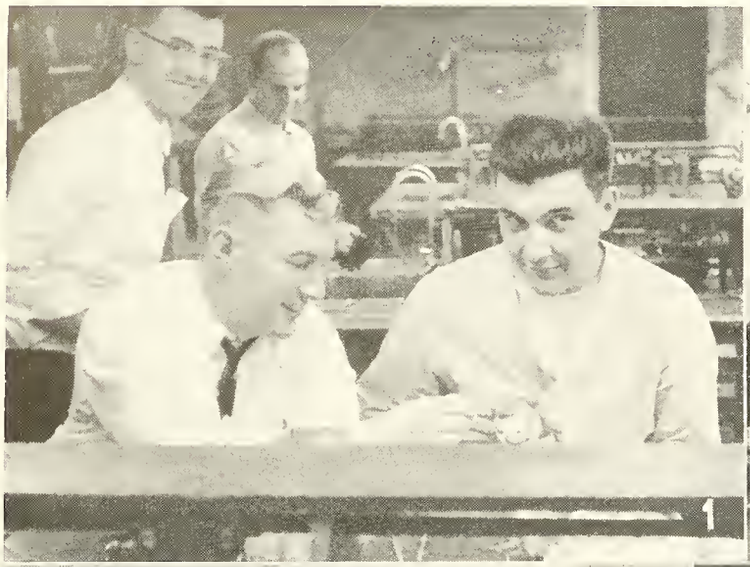
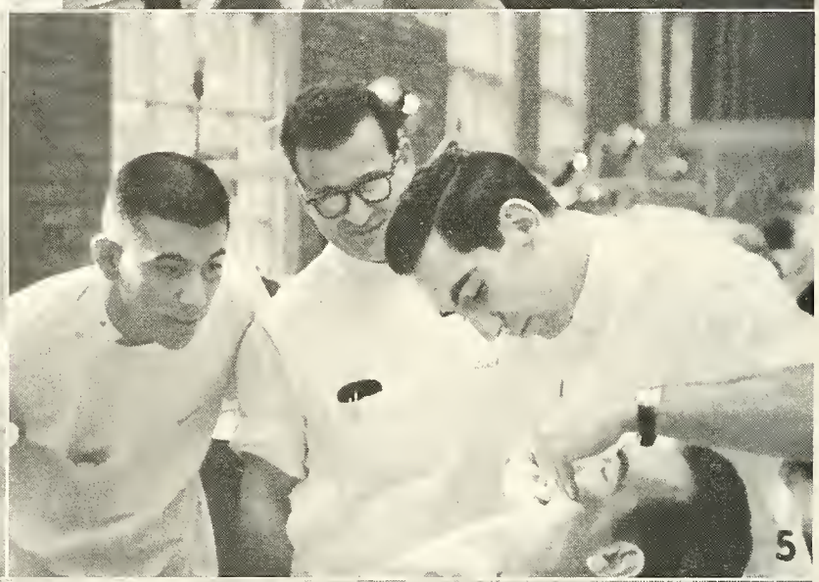
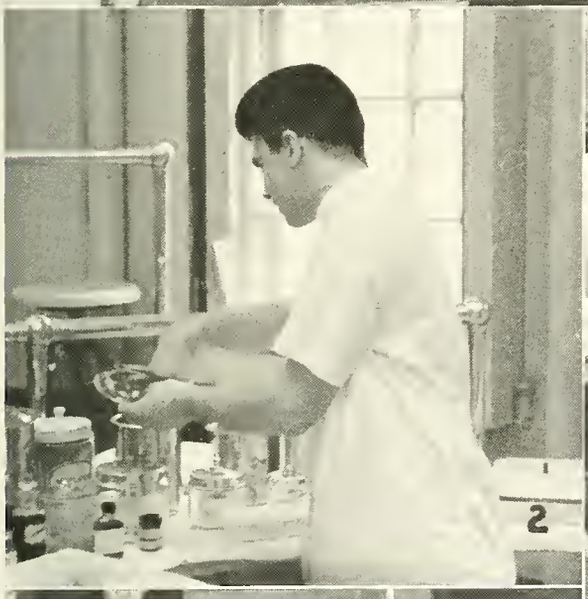
The Juniors

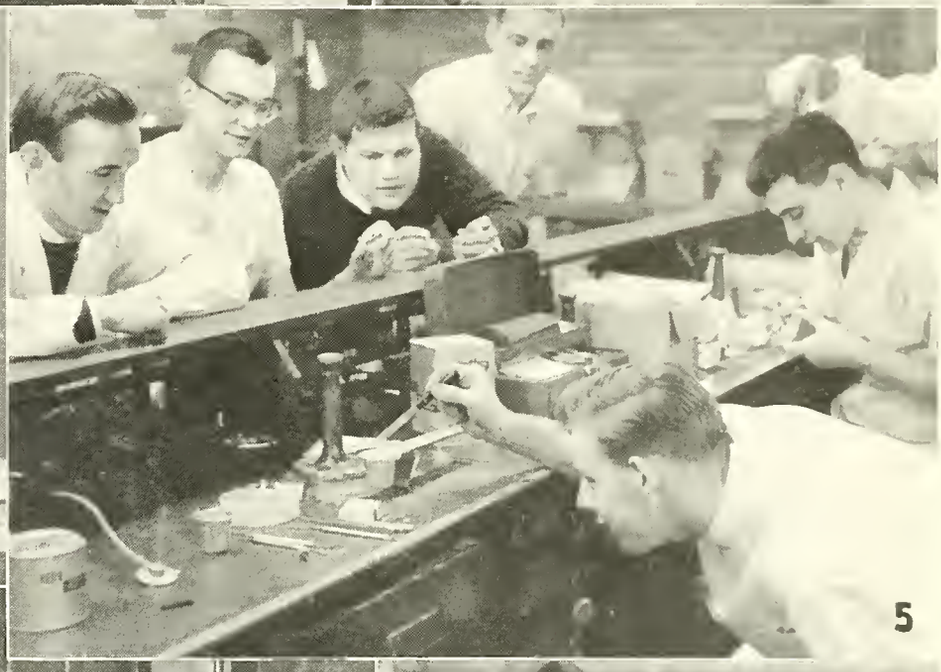




1. Hey! Here comes Kathy again!
2. I think I'd call that a nutrient canal.
3. I hope that new deodorant is reliable.
4. Do you notice the resemblance?
5. You see? This year we have a patient on the other end of those teeth!
6. And to top it all off, my 3 o'clock cancelled too!

The Juniors





1. Places everybody!
2. Why does it always have to be four cotton balls?
3. Attention everybody . . . may I have your attention please . . .
4. I think you've been curetting the mental foramen.
5. One more microgram and you're over the hill.
6. No, madam, this is not the plate that you'll wear.

As freshmen it seemed as though the day would never come when we would become sophomores, but time has a way of passing in spite of our wishes. Once more we set about with new hopes in our hearts and, strange as it seems, all the "terrible" things which happened to us as freshmen floated into oblivion and only the happy moments were remembered.

As the sophomore year draws to a close there are again the same hope and desire which drive us on, perhaps even unknowingly to us; hope that we will soon be juniors—and as time passes so it will be.

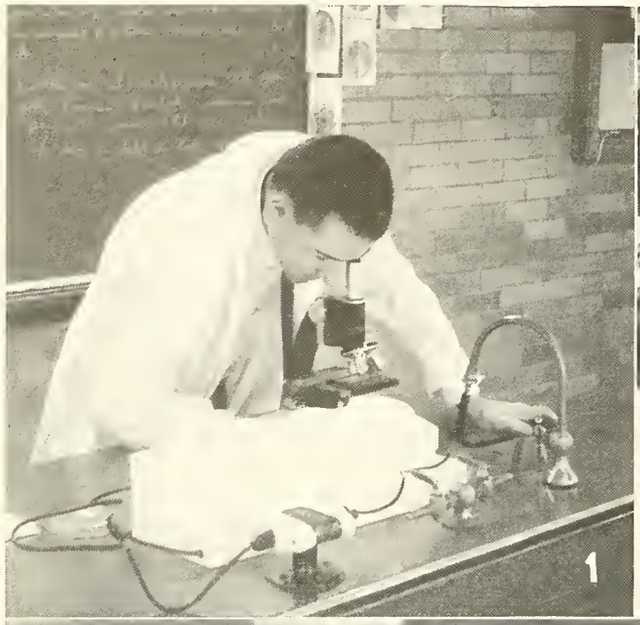
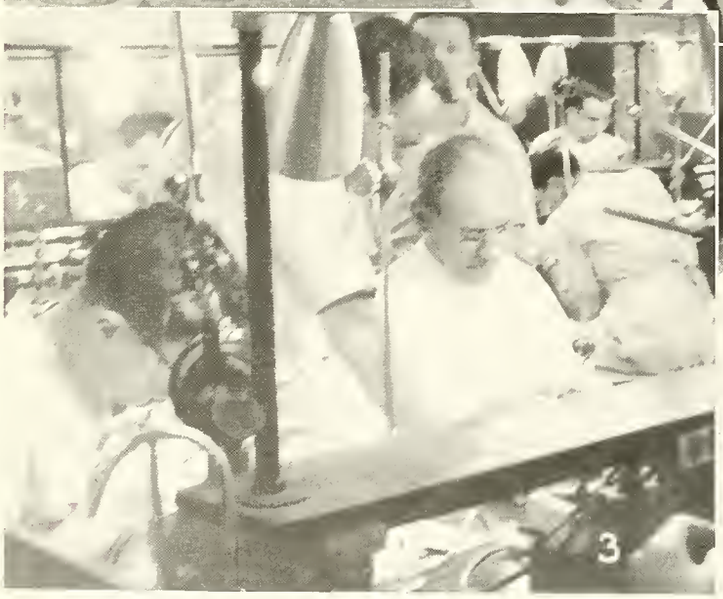
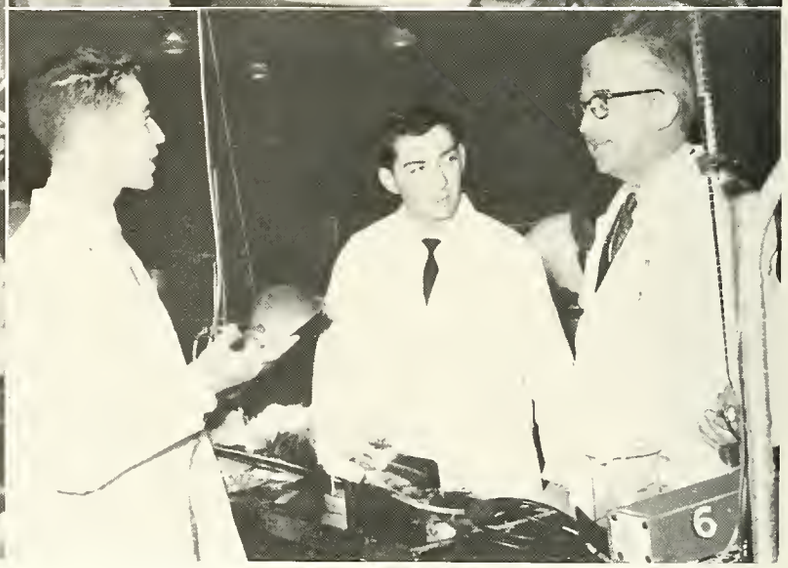
The Sophomores

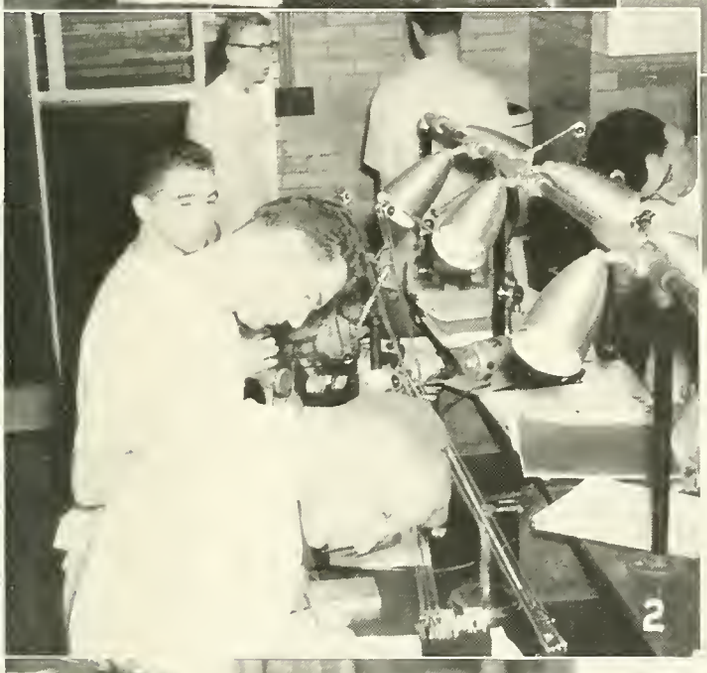






1. I wonder if these are mine or hers!
2. Did you learn this anatomy in my class last year?
3. You guys'll never finish by summer. You're four weeks behind already!
4. I thought we told you about eating lunch before a BMR.
5. Aw don't be a "scaredy-cat." Those bugs won't bite you!
6. But, I thought we started with a pneumothorax!

The Sophomores



1. . . . and never rely on contact for retention!
2. Have you gotten your penciled outline checked off?
3. I think my degree ought to read CDT—Certified Dental Technician.
4. Is this the line for the men's room? I brought my own.
5. Hey! This thing actually works!
6. Knit one, pearl two . . . toilet of the cavity on you!

"They said it couldn't be done!" . . . But B. C. D. S. did it!

It attracted select students from fifteen different states and the distant territory of Hawaii, fifty of them Maryland residents. The last fact is unique for the Class of 1962; never before have so many resident students been accepted to an incoming class. Other well represented states include Florida with eleven, Massachusetts with eight, and California with seven students. There are twenty-eight freshmen who wear wedding bands, and the number promises to be doubled by next year. Furthermore three students have a M. S. and forty-seven have a B. S.—a well educated group.

After the formal introductions to the School and to the Faculty, we future dentists absorbed our quota of the proverbial "gas" from the upperclassmen. And with it developed a unity which each class member felt as the year progressed. Perhaps it came from the impromptu Friday afternoon basketball games, or maybe the intimate lunch-hour conversations concerning the latest Dental Materials project, those Championship Baltimore Colts, or the last Anatomy exam. Perhaps the reason lay in our common goal and field of study.

2. What work! What a pair of hands! Show me how!
3. Now memorize this diagram and we'll quiz you on it in three minutes.
4. Have you found a Damncyte or a Hellofacyte yet?
5. Well, at last we are going to study teeth.
6. This boy must have a female cadaver.

The Freshmen

1. Combine these ingredients—wham—no more classes, no more exams . . .
2. Hey, you guys, the nurses are sunbathing again today!
3. Honest, fellows, it's true that I'm your best friend!
4. Man, if they want to rumble, we'll rumble!
5. This is Vince . . . Would you send twelve freshman sized shafts to . . .
6. Have you made up our next exam yet, Roland?

Acting in the tradition of its predecessors, this year's Interfraternity Council continued to further the students' interests in campus activities by the initiation of new projects as well as continuing the programs already in effect.

Upon the I. F. C.'s suggestion, lunchroom facilities were expanded and an additional phone booth was installed in the lounge. The fraternity rushing program met with great success. A new policy was agreed upon by the faculty by which there would be no exams given to the freshmen during the rush period. The I. F. C. composed and adopted a constitution.

The I. F. C. continued to sponsor the intramural athletic programs and the awards for the outstanding participants. These athletic awards and the I. F. C. award to the outstanding senior contributor to student activities are presented at the I. F. C. Award Banquet.

Gorgas Odontological Society

The Gorgas Odontological Society was formed in 1916 in memory of Ferdinand J. S. Gorgas, a distinguished graduate of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery and a prominent dental educator. The original purpose of the Society was to create an active interest in questions pertaining to the dental profession, and to develop the students' ability to present papers before various groups. After an erratic existence in this form Gorgas was reorganized as an honor society in 1926.

Invitation for membership is proffered to junior students maintaining a standing in the top thirty per cent of their class. The Society holds various dinner meetings and lectures during the school year. At the Spring Dance the junior members receive keys, and the senior members are awarded certificates.

Standing: Breckstein, Krampf, Danoff.

In keeping with that of recent years, the sports activities program is again being given active support by the student body.

With the softball season remaining to be played in the spring, the Psi Omega Spikes, who have won three consecutive professional school championships and retired the trophy, appear once more to be the team to beat.

The golf tournament last year was decided in May when Richard Saville defeated Hugh Beasley one-up on the nineteenth hole in the pouring rain. Frank Mastrola won the second flight by defeating Frank Trotto five and four.

The bowling league was successfully concluded in March this year with Alpha Omega winning the professional school championship. H. Levy was the leading bowler with an average of 105.4.

The Exposures basketball team placed second in the city league, winning three and losing two in the first half of the season. They now lead the second half with a two and nothing record.

Founded in 1897 by three medical students at the University of Pennsylvania, the Newman Club has gained prominence in almost every college and university in America. The purpose of the organization is to promote religious, intellectual, and social activities for Catholics in secular schools.

The chapter at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery has just completed its third successful year. Monthly meetings are held at the Newman House on Charles Street, and two Communion Breakfasts are held each year.

This year the Club was fortunate to have Father Charles Albright, the executive secretary of the National Newman Club Federation, as a speaker. Monsignor Michael Fronzcak, the liaison officer of Seton Hall University—Medical and Dental Colleges, was another outstanding speaker.

CARLO

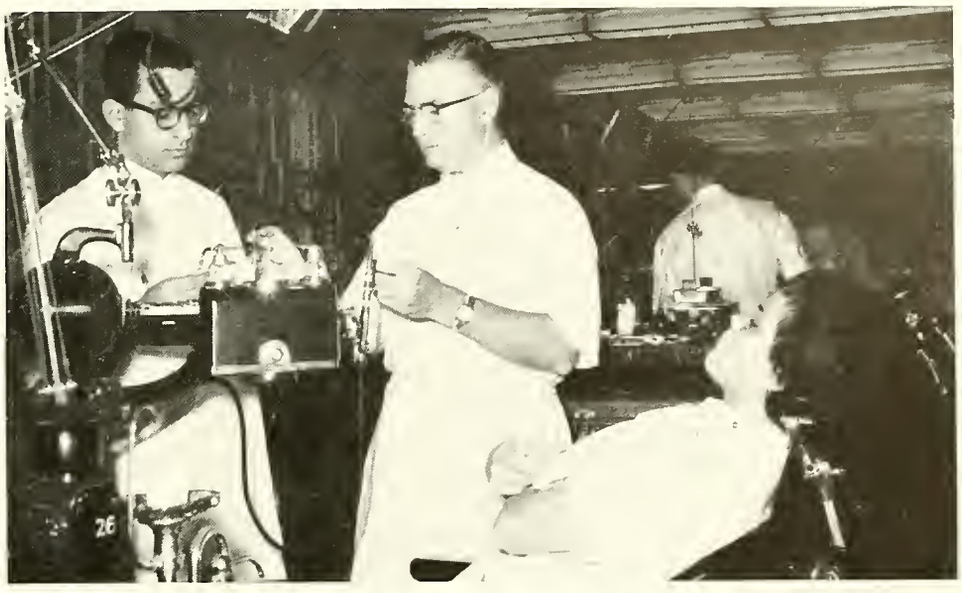
CLINICS

I think maybe I should have gone to law school.

The High Speed Section

Before our very eyes this year, a striking metamorphosis has taken place on the operative floor. Fifteen venerable dental units, whose ability to inflict pain through heat and vibration often seems to preclude the efficient reduction of tooth structure, have fallen victims of the times. In their place stands a full complement of the latest in high-speed equipment capable of from forty to four hundred thousand R. P. M.'s. The pastel green of the new Ritter units and the resonant wail of the air turbines seem to herald a new era of proficient and painless operative dentistry at the B. C. D. S.; and our hats are off to Dr. Medina and his staff for such a progressive contribution to the welfare of the students and the School.

Crown and Bridge



You can't in Ch_____'s world get an impression in that tube.

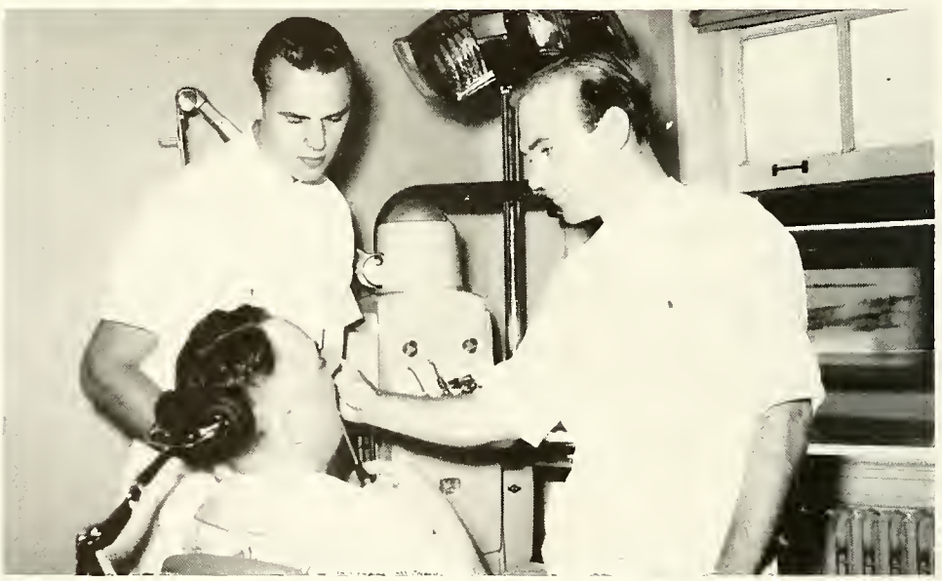
Sure it's a thinking man's pumice.

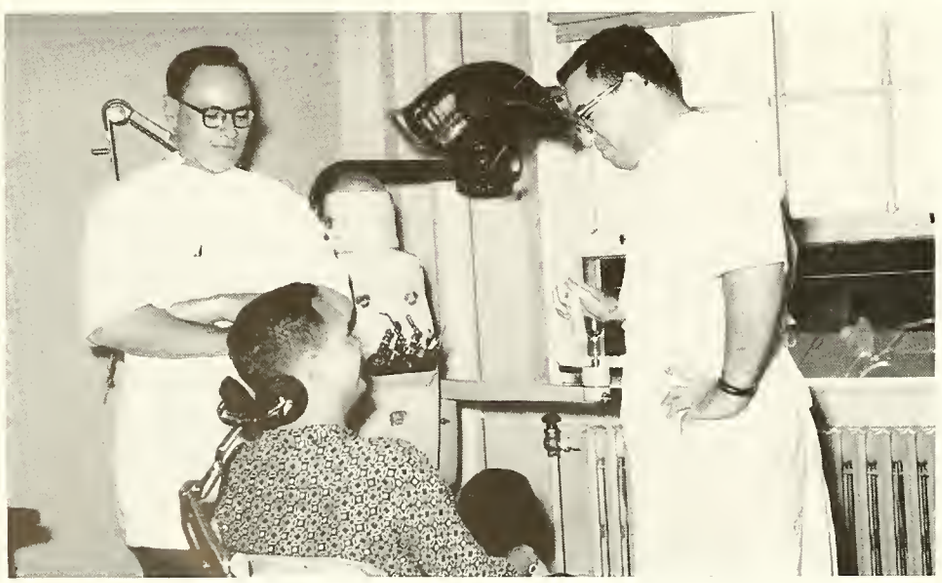
We can all smile at 10:15 a. m.!

Diagnosis

Let's make that an MOD on 19.

No . . . I wouldn't touch the buccal pits.

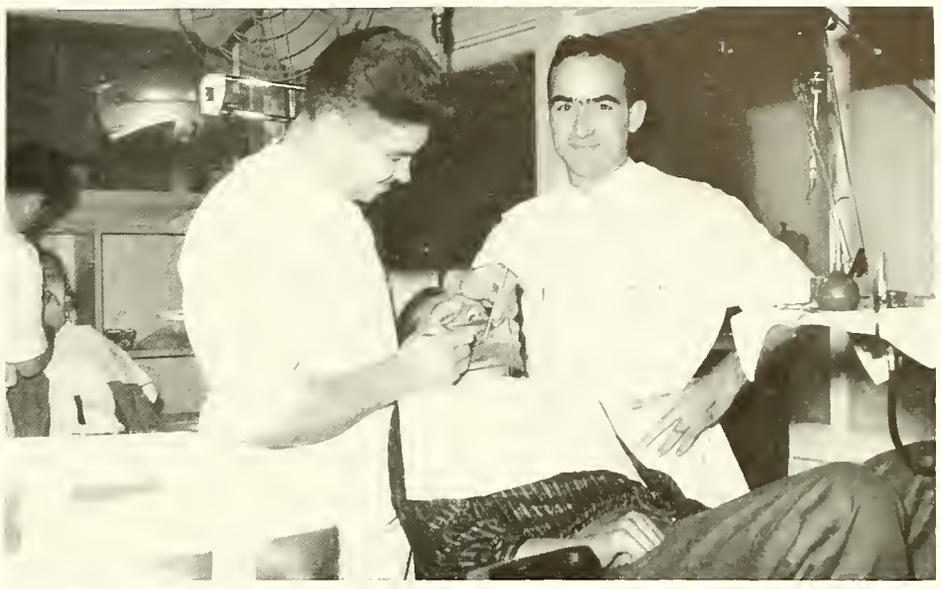




You can't fool me! You haven't seen your dentist every six months.

Oral Medicine

I wonder if I should have him enlarge this to to a number 12.



Wow! This stuff is setting up fast!

Now, the measurements in red were taken after curettage.

Operative

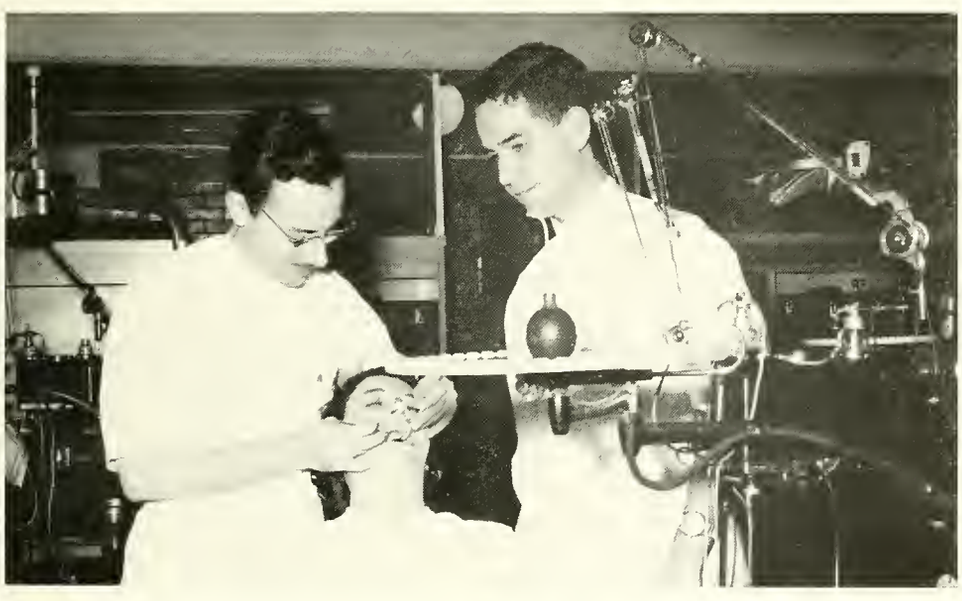
Can we check this with a sharp explorer, Mr. Ruland?

No good retention there—do dovetail lingual inlay.

Joe, who's that patient you had in before?

Dentistry

Don't say a word, Doctor. I'll dam this in a second.



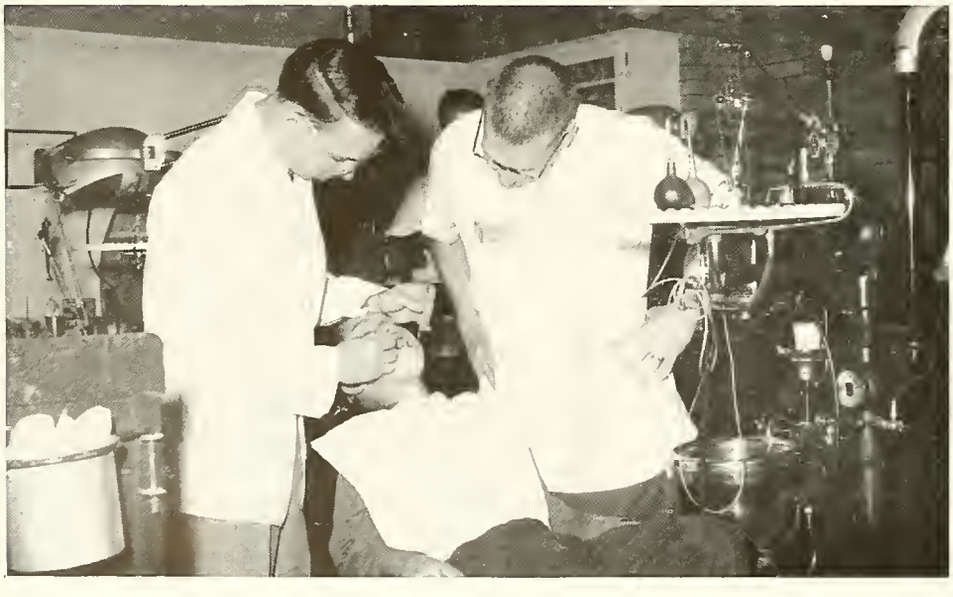
Si, est muy bueno!

No foils? No inlays? Too young?!

Pedodontics

I usually don't come out to give starts you know. I'm here to think.

No, Mr. Flanders . . . not pregnancy gingivitis.



Have you ever done a pulpotomy?

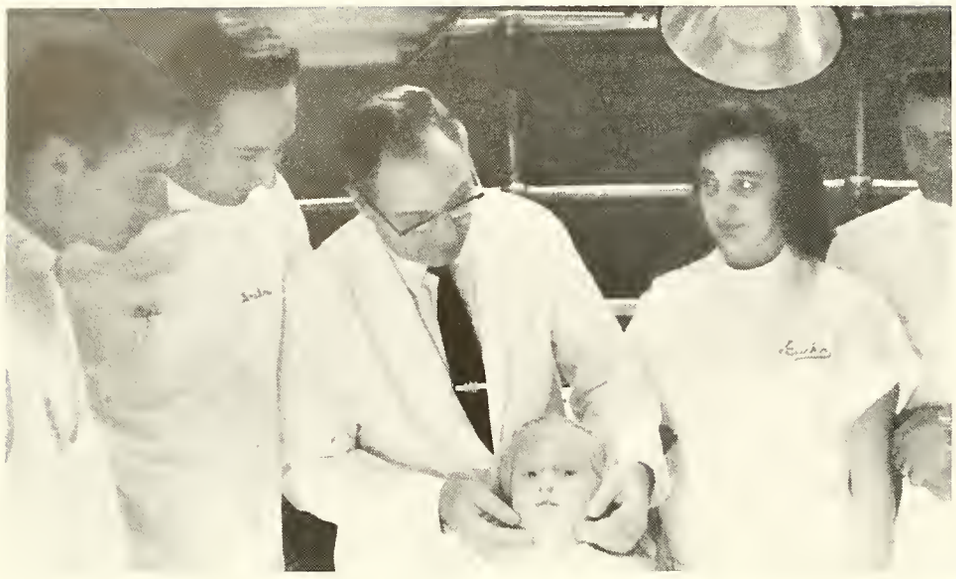
Prosthetics

Have her come in again tomorrow.

One guy tells me to lengthen it . . . and now you want me to shorten it!

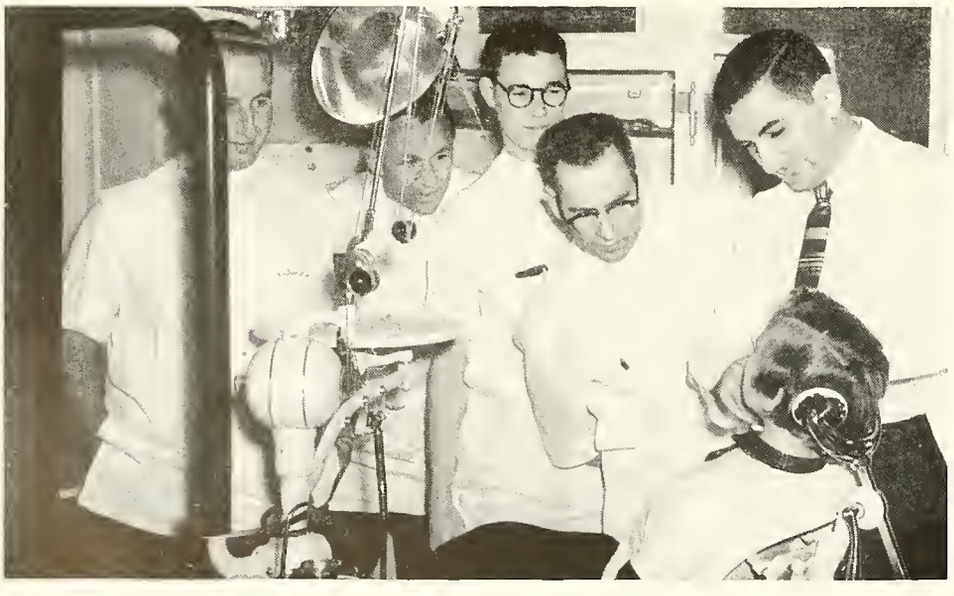
I think you've got it! Hum de dum de dum!

Orthodontics



You're right, Miss Bucko, this child does have the mumps!

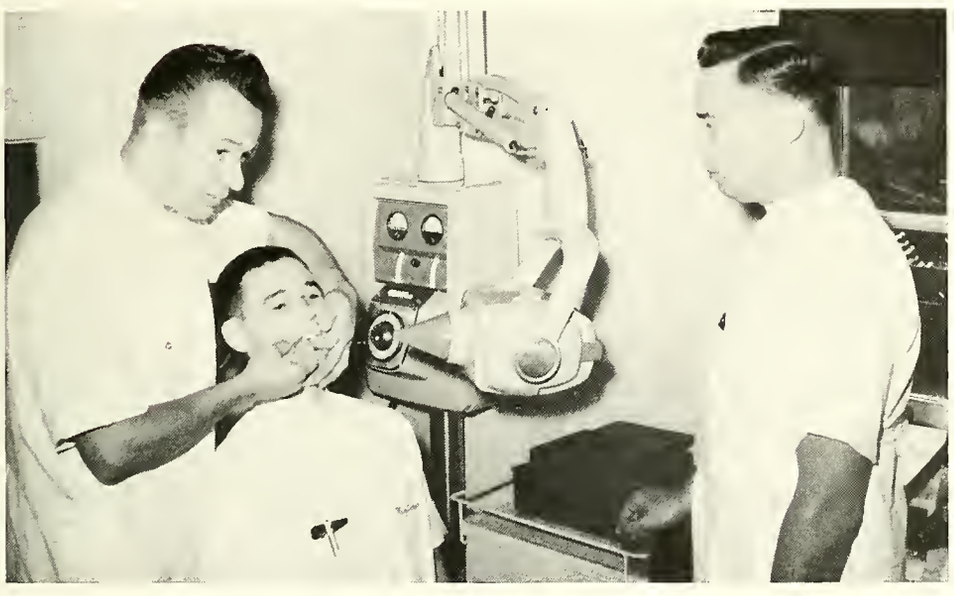
But I wanted my child's teeth straightened, not pulled!



High palate . . . pinched arch and dry lips suggest an etiology of what, Mr. Gardner?

Roentgenology

You'll get another cone cut that way.



What do I do now?

Who me? I work here.

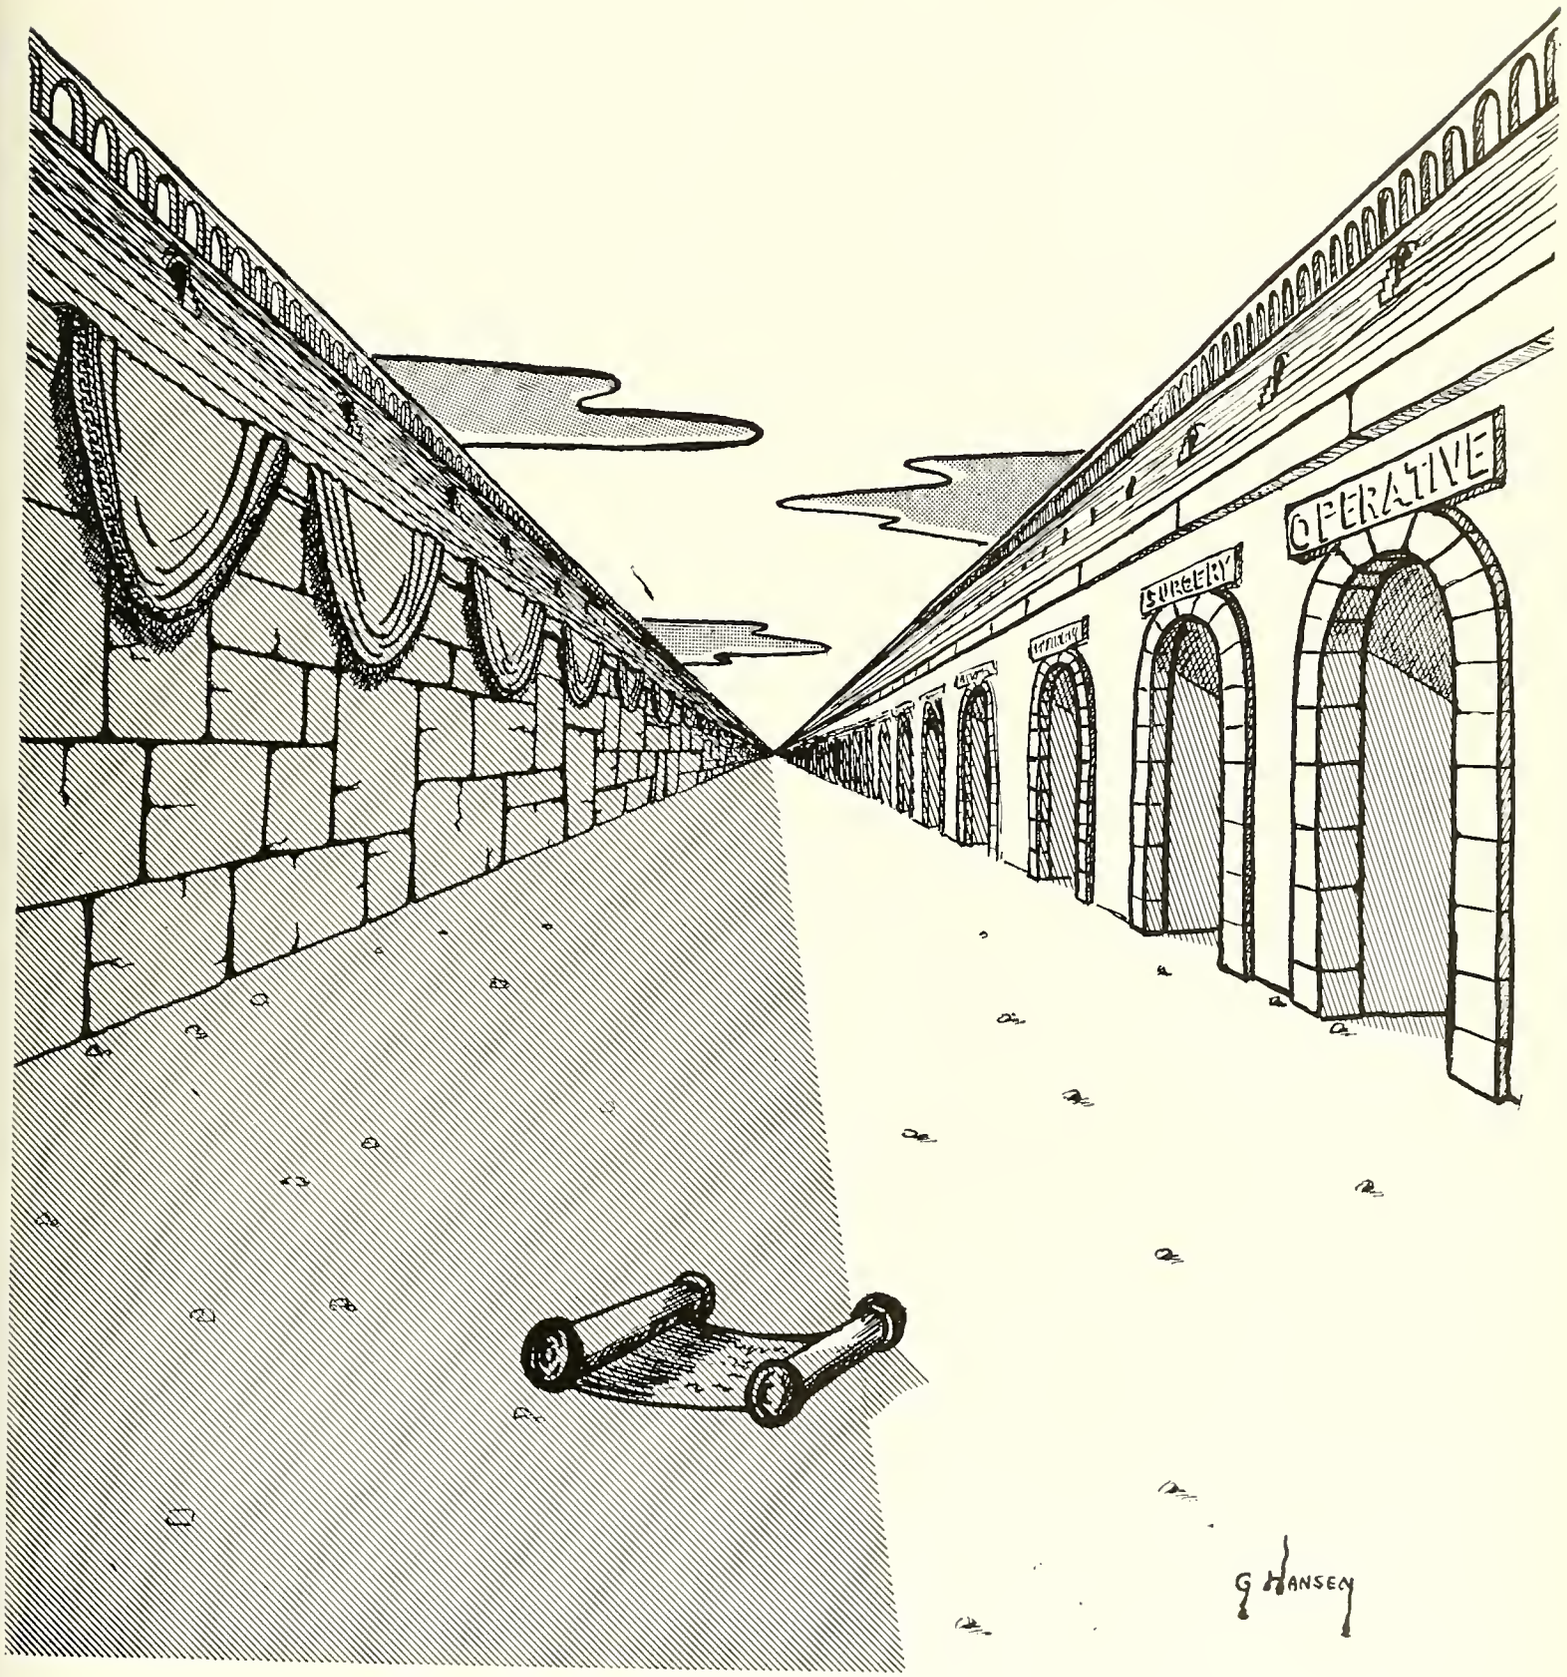
Surgery

Now the next step is to remove all of the debris, bone chips, etc.

You'll notice how I keep my fingers out of the patient's hair.

Would it help if I guided your hand?

FEATURES



FAMOUS SAYINGS ABOUT SCHOOL

"Gennamen, this is a good face."

"As of 2:45 the etiology of cancer is unknown."

"Didn't you see the demonstration?"

"I am not saying this facetiously!"

"Bring the patient in once more and we'll check it off."

"If that isn't enough gold, try an extra pennyweight the next time."

"What is this? Trash day, Ace?"

"We do not want for you to do it that way, fellas!"

"Have you seen the Pedo chairs?"

"We will do root canal next, and if that fail, take tooth to surgery."

"Turn out your light, please."

"Head back, please, madam!"

"Your suction hose is on the floor, son."

"Have you seen my glasses? I seem to have lost them."

GUESS WHO

By Juan A. Cuevas

I am not a poet,
I'm sure you can guess.
But here are some lines,
In form of a jest!

So this "bird" came to my office
With sunken eyes, in despair,
And I saw those swollen jaws,
"Something must be cooking there!"

Don't give the dentures out
Unless you get the dough!
Remember now, that patient,
Will never, never show!

While working at your chair,
Why can't you use the stool?
Remember now's the moment
To learn that trick in school!

Don't you think if I let you,
Sit the patient in that chair,
The whole class will shout,
Don't you do it, that's not fair?

Who told you to put that bow,
So far behind the ears?
How can you be so dumb?
What have you learned this year?

The crown doesn't fit.
The bridge is too loose.
The pontics are short.
How much can you goof?

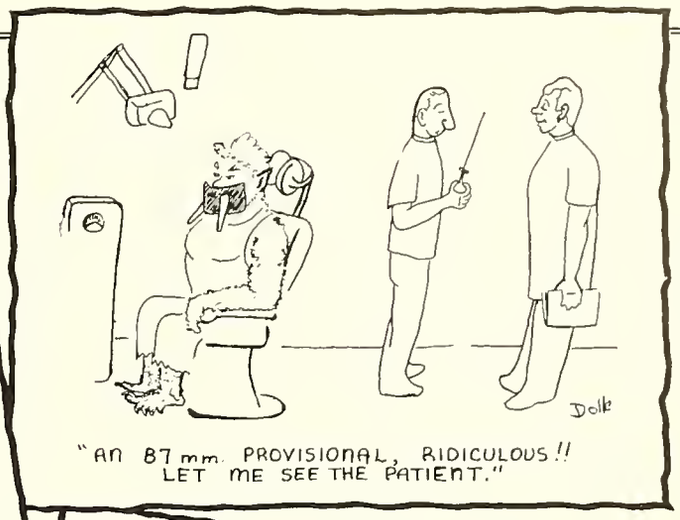
Plepalation no good, I say,
You better fix this spot,
By glinding hele a little
But don't make tooth too hot!

I see the girls are absent!
So now is time to say
The joke about the dentist,
Who never used the spray!

This is not criticism,
What here I'm going to say.
But gold foil is a murder!
For teeth that want to stay!

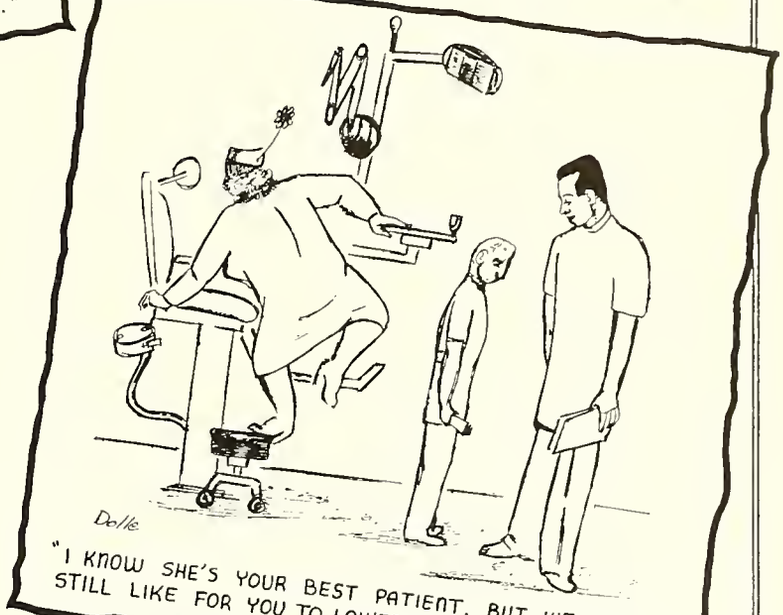
I'm the best on the East Coast,
And truly that's being fair!
I don't throw the pearls around,
Just to wander through the air!

"TRY TO UNDERSTAND, CLASS THREE GOLD FOILS JUST AREN'T DONE ON DECIDUOUS CENTRALS."

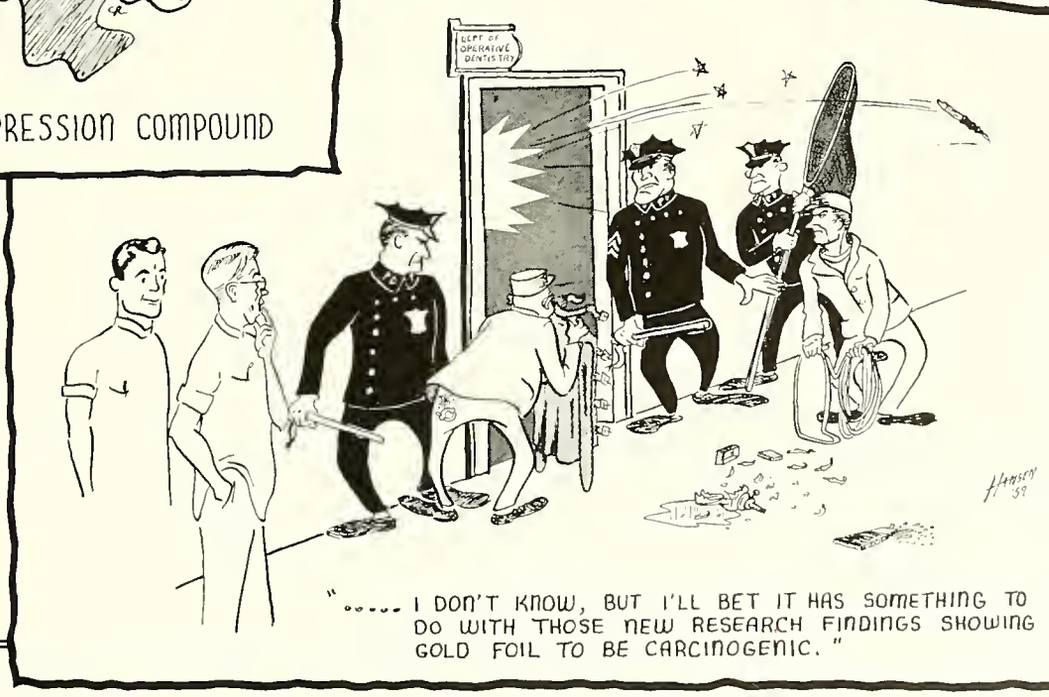


"AN 87 mm. PROVISIONAL, RIDICULOUS!! LET ME SEE THE PATIENT."

IMPRESSION COMPOUND



"I KNOW SHE'S YOUR BEST PATIENT, BUT WE WOULD STILL LIKE FOR YOU TO LOWER YOUR CHAIR FIRST!"



"..... I DON'T KNOW, BUT I'LL BET IT HAS SOMETHING TO DO WITH THOSE NEW RESEARCH FINDINGS SHOWING GOLD FOIL TO BE CARCINOGENIC."

THEME SONGS

I'll Take You Home Again, Dentoform
I've Got a Feeling I'm Failing
I Dream of Jeanie with the Class III Foils
Listen to the Tweety Bird
Caniculi, Canicula
I've Got You under My Dam
Three Teeth in the Fountain
I'm Beginning to See the Lights
Look for the Cement Lining
The Old Cotton Roll Blues
